

October 24, 2009

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

"Retired" Broadcaster Starts New Lake Gaston Website

Lake Gaston residents now have a new, consistently updated website with information important to their location and lifestyle. LakeGastonGuide.com is now available on the internet, filling a need not currently met by other websites, broadcasters or newspapers.

“There are sites without much information or very narrowly focused, sites that hadn’t been updated in months and lots of real estate sites,” said web publisher Harvey Powers. “Our goal was to try and create a Lake Gaston site that had lots of current, relevant information and make the promise to keep it updated.”

LakeGastonGuide.com includes links to area news and weather. It has navigable maps with information for boaters and fishermen, listings of restaurants by type and location, information about lake area attractions and services, an constantly updated Lake Gaston events calendar and other important information now scattered among many sites (and in some cases, not available anywhere else).

With a goal to serve the entire Lake Gaston Community, LakeGastonGuide.com is a free, advertiser-supported service.

Powers is a veteran of the internet information business. He spent 30 years with NBC12 in Richmond, the last ten involved with the station’s award winning website, before retiring to Lake Gaston a year ago.