SOMEONE WILL WIN A $100,000 VOICE-OVER TALENT CONTRACT TOMORROW

Virginia Beach, VA — April 11, 2013. Studio Center Total Production will conclude its nationwide voice-over talent search, Studio Center's Next Great Voice Talent, tomorrow, 9am to 5pm, at the Grand Finale event at 240 Business Park Drive, Virginia Beach.

The contest, which began in January, consisted of qualifying auditions in Richmond, VA, New York City, NY, Las Vegas, NV, Santa Monica, CA and Virginia Beach, VA. Judges chose the top 20 in each city and those persons went on to a two-week online voting phase of the contest. The top vote getter in each city will be participating in the finale. In addition to the city finalists, the judges “saved” six people from those who auditioned and those persons will also be competing for the grand prize.

The eleven finalists are:

Representing Richmond	Representing New York City	Representing Las Vegas	Representing Santa Monica	Representing Virginia Beach
Justin Green	Talia Gonzalez	Bryan Green	Rachel Grady	Brian Davis
Morgan Meadows	Cassie Low		Brittany Tran	Bill Lord Kesha Monk Katie Cook

The finalists will each have 30 minutes to rehearse the three finale scripts and 30 minutes to audition. The judges will coach the finalists during the audition process to see how well they take direction.

Criteria upon which contestants will also be judged will include, but will not be limited to: Voice pitch and tone, voice uniqueness, pronunciation, acting ability, copy interpretation and accent versatility.

The grand prizewinner, as determined by the panel of judges, will receive a $100,000 voice-over contract from Studio Center, the largest audio and video company in the United States.

Studio Center's CEO, William “Woody” Prettyman, plans to make the contest an annual event. This year over 800 people auditioned.
