

PRESS RELEASE

For Immediate Release
March 5, 2010

FREDERICKSBURG, VA – NewsTalk1230 WFVA (WFVA-AM) Outgoing Fredericksburg Councilman Matt Kelly takes his passion for the region from City Hall to WFVA Town Hall beginning April 5th at 8am on NewsTalk1230 WFVA. After 8 years on city council, Kelly is not seeking re-election. His term on council ends July 1.

During a recent council meeting, Kelly said, "I frankly enjoy having a lively discussion and debate." He'll have that opportunity, weekdays, on NewsTalk1230 WFVA. From 8-9, Kelly will interact with people impacting the region and callers on WFVA Town Hall. WFVA Market Manager Jim Butler says, "Matt will stimulate discussion around the community about topics of the day. Few people are as plugged into the entire Fredericksburg area as Matt." Kelly and WFVA News Director Ted Schubel will also talk about local, state, and national issues from 7-8am on "Fredericksburg Today."

Kelly has served as Chairman of the Fredericksburg Area Metropolitan Planning Organization, the George Washington Regional Commission and the Historic Preservation Task Force. He's served on the VRE Operations Board, the Potomac and Rappahannock Transportation Commission, the Fredericksburg Stafford Park Authority, and the Design Committee's for new James Monroe High School and Lafayette Upper Elementary School.

Kelly and his wife Cindie have three children and three grandchildren.

Besides WFVA Town Hall, NewsTalk1230 WFVA is the Fredericksburg home of Rush Limbaugh, Sean Hannity, Glenn Beck, Mark Levin, Laura Ingram, Alan Colmes, and George Norey.
