MATTHEW HATFIELD JOINS ESPN RADIO 94.1

Matthew Hatfield joined the growing staff at Max Media's (Virginia Beach) ESPN Radio 94.1. Hatfield, who has covered Eastern Region basketball and football since 2004 for VirginiaPreps.com, will do "on air work" and help produce the "Tony Mercurio Show," weekdays at 3 p.m.

"Matthew has been coming on the air with us for several years covering high school sports", noted Program Director Tony Mercurio. "He will continue to work for VirginiaPreps.com. We will use Matthew in many different ways... do sports center updates, help produce my show and will continue to be a main contributor to our high school sports coverage in the area and throughout the Commonwealth of Virginia."

Hatfield, a native of Norfolk, was the creator of the annual VirginiaPreps.com Basketball Invitational. He is widely known as the top high school sports analyst in Hampton Roads.

"He brings so much to the table for ESPN Radio 94.1," said Mercurio. "He will be a huge part of our high school coverage with Richie Summerville and Coach Ed Young plus I can see a special show on the horizon for Matthew here at ESPN Radio 94.1."

ESPN Radio 94.1 is the only all-sports radio station in Hampton Roads and was the first all-sports radio station in the Commonwealth of Virginia...
